Summary

I'm a recording arts student with a background in film and a passion for creating and producing music. I've been producing since a young age, and my early start with Logic Pro and Final Cut Pro gave me the tools to explore storytelling through both sound and visuals.

While my roots are in video, I've shifted my focus toward music through engineering and mixing tracks, experimenting with style and structure, and continually refining my creative workflow. I approach every project with intention, curiosity, and a desire to make something that resonates.

I briefly worked as a Specialist at Apple, where I built strong communication skills and flexed my tech skills that continue to serve me in collaborative and creative environments.
